

WCAHS Fall Symposium

Diverse approaches to agricultural health and safety

October 26, 2017 – International Center, UC Davis

- 8:00 – 8:30 Check-in & light breakfast
- 8:30 – 8:45 Welcome
Director Kent Pinkerton will provide an overview of the Western Center for Agricultural Health and Safety (WCAHS), including current initiatives and visions for the future.
- 8:45 – 10:15 WCAHS Research
WCAHS investigators will discuss their projects and perspectives as faculty from different schools and colleges.
- Fadi Fathallah, Ergonomics and Robotics, College of Engineering and CAES
 - Diane Mitchell, Heat Illness, School of Medicine
 - Kent Pinkerton, Air Pollution, Schools of Medicine and Veterinary Medicine
 - Rob Atwill, Dairies and Zoonotics, School of Veterinary Medicine
 - Christopher Simmons, Fumigation Alternatives, College of Ag and Env Science
- 10:15 – 10:45 Break and Poster Viewing
- 10:45 – 11:45 WCAHS Research Breakout Discussions
WCAHS investigators will lead discussions about their projects and opportunities for research collaboration.
- 11:45 – 12:45 Lunch
- 12:45 – 2:30 Afternoon Breakout Sessions
Attendees will rotate through discussions on WCAHS emerging issues, outreach and education, and evaluation and communication strategies.
- Cannabis – an emerging issue in worker health and safety
 - Outreach & Education – translating research findings for agricultural communities
 - Evaluation – measuring success and getting to impacts that matter
 - Communication – methods to relay WCAHS findings / outreach to the general public
 - Emerging issues – what’s on your mind regarding ag health and safety?
- 2:30 – 3:00 Breakout Session Reporting
- 3:00 – 3:20 Internal Funding Opportunities
Money for small research grants, emerging issues projects, and graduate students.
- 3:20 – 3:30 Wrap-up and Conclusion
- 3:30 – 5:00 Reception & International Center Tour:
Attendees are invited to network during a reception and take a tour of the International Center with Dr. Fadi Fathallah, Associate Vice Provost for Global Education and Services and WCAHS Associate Director